DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is in response to applicant's amendment received on 07/08/05

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1, 14, 15, 25-27, 29, 31 and 32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Noboru (51137187 JP).

Noboru discloses (Fig. 1-6) the invention substantially as claimed including a platform 33, a support plate 10, a saw assembly, a balancing apparatus (12 and 13), a saw blade 18, an oscillating mechanism (see Fig. 4) and a counterweight 12. Noboru teaches the use of a portion 12 of said balancing apparatus moves toward and away from said support plate.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 3724

5. Claims 1, 14, 15, 25-27, 29, 31 and 32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over O. F. Kleeb et al. (1,730,938) in view of Noboru (51137187 JP).

Kleeb et al. discloses (Fig. 1-4) the invention substantially as claimed including a platform (1 and 2), a support plate 19, a saw assembly, a balancing apparatus 60, a saw blade 22, an oscillating mechanism (see Fig. 1) and a counterweight 61. Kleeb et al. does not show a portion of said balancing apparatus moves toward and away from said support plate. However, Noboru teaches the use of a portion 12 of said balancing apparatus moves toward and away from said support plate 10 for the purpose of better controlling the movement of the cutting tool. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the device of Kleeb et al. by providing the portion of said balancing apparatus moves toward and away from said support plate as taught by Noboru in order to obtain a better control of the movement of the cutting tool.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 1, 14, 15, 25-27, 29, 48 and 49 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lavis (4163404) in view of O. F. Kleeb et al. (1,730,938) and Noboru (51137187 JP).

Lavis discloses (Fig. 1-9) the invention substantially as claimed including a platform (1-4), a support plate (phantom line in Fig. 2), a saw assembly 35, a balancing apparatus/counterweight 21 and a saw blade 38. Lavis does not show an oscillating mechanism and a portion of said balancing apparatus moves toward and away from said support plate. However, Kleeb et al. teach the use of an oscillating mechanism (see Fig.1) for the purpose of automatically driving the saw. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified Lavis's device by providing the oscillating mechanism as taught by Kleeb et al. in order to obtain a device that automatically drive the saw.

Regarding a portion of said balancing apparatus moves toward and away from said support plate, Noboru teaches the use of a portion 12 of said balancing apparatus moves toward and away from said support plate 10 for the purpose of better controlling the movement of the cutting tool. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the device of Lavis by providing the portion of said balancing apparatus moves toward and away from said support plate as taught by Noboru in order to obtain a better control of the movement of the cutting tool.

Response to Arguments

8. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

9. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
